

Abstract of the Invention

The present invention provides a wireless audio-video transmission apparatus. This apparatus can convert the required
5 audio-video signal from the cable line into wireless signal for broadcast.
The receivers located within broadcast range can receive the required wireless signal.